About Us

Families Together is Kansas' Parent Training and Information Center and Family-to-Family Health Information Center. That means we're here to support families who have children with disabilities or special health care needs.

You don't have to figure this out alone. Our Parent-to-Parent program connects you with another parent who has raised a child with a disability and understands what this journey can feel like. They are there to listen, encourage, and support you.

How We Support You

We offer a safe, confidential place to ask questions and find solutions together, along with free resources and services in both English and Spanish.

- Explain how special education services and school supports work
- Help you understand MTSS (Multi-Tiered System of Supports) and available learning and behavior supports
- Guide you through the IEP (Individualized Education Program) process
- Teach you about your rights and help build your advocacy skills
- Strengthen communication and partnerships with teachers, schools, and medical teams
- Connect you with infant, toddler, and early childhood services
- Support planning for a smooth transition to adulthood
- And so much more!
